U. S. Fifth Army Broadens Offensive

CASSINO NOW MENACED ON THREE SIDES

French Units Hammering Through 3,000 and 4,000-Foot High Mountains Closing In on Town

ADVANCE IS SURPRISE

By WES GALLAGHER
Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Jan. 13.—(P)—Virtually the entire American Fifth Army was on the move today as it broadened its offensive from near the coast to central Italy and sent French units hammering through 3,000 and 4,000-foot high mountains to threaten Cassino from a third side. American infantry swept to within three miles of Cassino in a frontal attack with the capture of Cervaro at 1 p. m. yesterday after almost surrounding the village, headquarters announced. The Germans already had announced its loss.

In the first day of the French offensive in the mountains of central Italy, Gen. Alphonse Juin's troops advanced two-thirds of a mile southwest of Rocchetta, 12 miles northeast of Cervaro. They captured a 3,000-foot peak overlooking the road winding almost due west of Isernia between Colli and Aiatina, took several points on the 4,000-foot Monna Casale range and recaptured two peaks previously lost—Mt. Molino overlooking Acquafondola, seven miles northeast of Cassino, and Mt. Raimo, in the same area to the north of Viticcio. The Allies thus held mountains overlooking Viticcio from two sides. The surprise French advance caught a number of German prisoners.

Jun's troops, fighting in some of the roughest country in Europe where virtually all supplies must be hauled by mule and hand from one peak to another, were threatening the Cassino-Atina road, one of the two valley highways leading north from Cassino. On the Eighth Army front there were only patrol activity and heavy artillery fire.

Casualties Since Start of the War Now Total 139,800

Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—American casualties since the start of the war now total more than 139,800. The army losses total 105,229 and those of the navy, marine and coast guard 34,571. Secretary of War Stimson, in reporting the army casualties from the start of the war to December 31, said the figure represented 28,531 killed, 38,916 wounded, 24,067 missing, and 25,415 prisoners of war.

Casualties to American elements of the Fifth Army in Italy since the start of that campaign on September 9 are 18,119. Of this total 2,798 were killed, 11,762 were wounded and 3,559 were missing.

The navy-marine-coast guard casualties reported up to today are made up as follows: 15,186 killed, 6,616 wounded, 8,429 missing, 4,292 prisoners of war.

MacArthur's Air Arm Smacks Jap Supply and Troop Lines

By ROBERT EUNSON
Allied Air Force Headquarters, New Guinea, Jan. 13.—(P)—Moving swiftly in the wake of advancing Allied fighting fronts in the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air arm has shifted its bases forward and is smacking the Japanese along their vital supply and troop lines. Within the past week the Fifth Army air force has struck 24 heavy blows at enemy bases along the northeast coast of New Guinea, using heavy and medium bombers operating from airfields north of

Makes Germans Say 'Kamerad'

Coal Operators and Dealers See No Relief In Situation

Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—Secretary Ickes, Solid Fuels Administrator, is studying the possibility of Sunday operation of anthracite mines. An official for the Fuels Administration reported today that the subject was in a "purely exploratory stage" and was one of the expedients being scanned as a means of boosting coal production.

By the Associated Press
Pennsylvanians, situated in the heart of the nation's anthracite fields, today went begging for fuel as the state's coal operators and dealers reported there was no sign of immediate relief from the worst anthracite shortage in many years.

Hospitals, institutions and thousands of homes were scraping the bottoms of coal bins. Residents within sight of the mines at Scranton and Wilkes-Barre were having difficulty getting coal.

New York City and New Jersey also reported coal shortages, but the situation was most acute in the Philadelphia area, where the chief of the public health department called it "a menace to health."

Anthracite operators blamed the critical situation on a shortage of manpower in the mines and predicted little increase in the supply this winter. In the rich bituminous producing area of Pittsburgh dealers reported they were unable to keep their bins filled. New York reported slight relief with the delivery of emergency shipments of bituminous, movement of the supplies was held up by a shortage of yard and train crews at the Allentown junction of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

The Solid Fuels Administration reported in Philadelphia huge reserves of small-size anthracite in the storage yards of the city's big industries might be tapped if some other relief was not forthcoming. The first move in this direction was in the form of an inventory made of all available stocks by the federal agency to determine where diversions of shipments could be made immediately for distribution to retail channels. Roger Jones, president of the Pennsylvania Retail Coal Dealers Association said this method may be used to supply the estimated (Turn To Page Eleven)

Southwest Coast Of Formosa Raided

By J. REILLY O'SULLIVAN
Headquarters 14th U. S. Air Force in China, Jan. 13.—(P)—Unescorted Liberator bombers bombed the Japanese Aluminum plant at Takao in Thailand in two night raids Tuesday, it was announced today. Twelve tons of bombs crashed down on the aluminum plant at 10 p. m. Tuesday despite intense anti-aircraft action and started large fires. The plant is reported to supply a substantial part of the metal used in Japanese aircraft. Japanese leaders for several months have been appealing desperately for a greatly increased output of planes. Unlike the previous Thanksgiving-Day raid on Formosa by Mitchell medium bombers and long-range fighters when at least 31 enemy planes were destroyed in the air and on the ground, the Liberators encountered no Japanese interceptors.

REDS EXPAND TERRITORY IN SARNY SECTOR

Russians Strike Out In Sweeping Movements To Threaten German-Held Strongholds

DRIVES TOWARD PINSK

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Moscow, Jan. 13.—(P)—Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's highly mobile first Ukrainian army, expanding its front on the Sarny sector (in old Poland) to a width of 50 miles or more, struck out in several sweeping movements today to threaten the German-held strongholds of Rovno, Pinsk and Kovel. The strong armored and infantry force of Vatutin's right wing which captured Dombrovitsa, 20 miles north of Sarny on the Rovno-Sarny-Baranowicz railway, fought its way through frozen marshlands country to within 50 miles southwest of Pinsk, important center on the Gomel-Brest-Litovsk railway. It already had passed the worst of the Pripiet marshes and advance units were approaching the high rolling ground beyond the swamps.

While this force was smashing its way to the northwest, a new offensive launched Tuesday, to the north of the marshes by Gen. Konstantin Rokossovsky's White Russian army was approaching the city of Mozyr, 80 miles southwest of Gomel, along a 20-mile-wide front. Dispatches said that German troops in front of Rokossovsky (Turn To Page Eleven)

Prohibitionists Given Hearing By Committee

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—Prohibitionists had a one day stand before a house committee in their new campaign for a bone dry law today while a senate group resumed its search for the liquor that can't be found in your favorite grog shop.

The prohibition advocates appeared in support of legislation sponsored by Rep. Bryson (D-SC) who arranged for a judiciary subcommittee session to accommodate witnesses who happened, he said, to be in town on other business. Bryson, laughing at opposition reports that a $10,000,000 dry lobby fund had been raised, said some of those who wanted to be heard today were too poor to finance a return trip to the capital. Hence, Chairman Hobbs (D-Ala) said the subcommittee would hear, at today's session, only proponents of the legislation, which would outlaw any beverage containing more than one half of one percent of alcohol by volume until after demobilization of the armed forces. Meanwhile, a senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Chairman Van Nuys (D-Ind.) returned to its investigation of the current dearth of retail liquor stocks.

Nation Warned Critical Year Expected On the Food Front

Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—The War Department's order limiting practice blackouts and daytime tests to one every three months in Atlantic and Pacific coast areas will change nothing in Pennsylvania Civilian Defense plans, Executive Director Ralph Cooper Hutchison has announced.

Hutchison declared in a statement "this state already left the calling of blackouts entirely to the army and instituted a monthly mobilization of civilian defense forces." "We understand, however, that bombings, sabotage and natural disasters are still probable," added the director. "Therefore as requested by the army announcement, the protective services in Pennsylvania will be continued and will not be de-activated." Pennsylvania was included in the Atlantic coast area by the Federal Office of Civilian Defense last December.

Record In Spending Recalled In Message

Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—The 12 budget messages President Roosevelt has sent to congress will have accounted for more than three times as much money as all his 30 predecessors spent. The $99,769,000,000 Mr. Roosevelt projected today for the fiscal year beginning July 1 brings his total of actual or contemplated federal spending to more than $378,000,000,000 of which actually will have been spent for defense or war, assuming that the war is continuing on all fronts through June 30, 1945. The latter figure includes army and navy spending beginning with the 1933-34 fiscal year. In addition, $105,000,000,000 more will have been appropriated for war purposes.

From Washington's time until Herbert Hoover left the White House (including the remainder of the 1933 fiscal year for which he submitted the budget), governmental costs were roughly $112,000,000,000.

Brotherhood Unions Appeal Before Board

Fifteen Railroad Groups Make Third Plea Since Dispute Began

PROPOSAL IS INDEFINITE

Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—Representatives of 15 railroad non-operating unions decided to appeal today before an emergency board, the third since their wage dispute began more than a year ago. It was indefinite, however, whether the unions would make an unconditional presentation of their case, which would imply an agreement to abide by the board's recommendation. The unions previously were unwilling to go along with President Roosevelt's proposed arbitration because they and the carriers were unable to agree on the scope of the issues which the president would decide. The unions contend that the only issue is overtime after 40 hours a week. They argued that they have accepted the recommendation of the previous board for increases of four to ten cents an hour and that these increases no longer are reversible. The railroads take the (Turn To Page Eleven)

DEATH MYSTERY SOLVED

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 13.—(P)—Suspicion that Harry Cohen, 45, of Pittsburgh, might have been robbed after his death by heart attack, was set at rest last night when Coroner Sam Baird found $42 in a secret pocket of the dead man's coat. Cohen, a salesman for the Highland Knitting Mills, Philadelphia, was riding in his car on the outskirts of Wheeling when he died. The coroner ordered the release of three members of the Merchant Marine who had been riding in Cohen's car.

State Blackouts To Be Continued

Harrisburg, Jan. 13.—(P)—The War Department's order limiting practice blackouts and daytime tests to one every three months in Atlantic and Pacific coast areas will change nothing in Pennsylvania Civilian Defense plans, Executive Director Ralph Cooper Hutchison has announced. Hutchison declared in a statement "this state already left the calling of blackouts entirely to the army and instituted a monthly mobilization of civilian defense forces." "We understand, however, that bombings, sabotage and natural disasters are still probable," added the director. "Therefore as requested by the army announcement, the protective services in Pennsylvania will be continued and will not be de-activated." GIGANTIC RAID ON GERMANY HELD SUCCESS

Flaming Battle Over Reich May Be Forerunner of Mighty Struggle for Air Supremacy

LOSS IS 64 PLANES

BULLETIN
London, Jan. 13.—(P)—RAF fighters shot down eight German planes today to replace the 59 lost in Tuesday's spectacular raid on central Germany, and fliers who took part in that great three-hour battle were eager to get on with the campaign against the Nazis.

"We have plenty of replacements—we can take a whole lot more in war losses than we suffered Tuesday," an Eighth Airforce spokesman said. As the Americans' losses were balanced against more than 100 Nazi craft shot down and the destruction dropped on three centers of Nazi airplane production, the returned airmen summed up the flaming three-hour battle against swarms of Nazi rocket fighters and rocket ground guns in these matter-of-fact words: "We won, didn't we?"

Both Allied leaders and Germans linked the clash between possibly 1,200 American fighters and (Turn To Page Eleven)

Navy Patrols Sink Number Jap Barges

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, Jan. 13.—(P)—Swift patrol-torpedo boats of the United States navy, darting at night among barges crowded with Japanese, are blasting to the bottom of Vitiaz Strait, many of the enemy trying to escape a jungle trap closing on them along the Huon peninsula coast of New Guinea.

Headquarters of General MacArthur reported today the sinking of nine barges and the severe damaging of 11 others by PT boats operating in darkness offshore between Sidor and Sio. "Many of the barges contained enemy troops," the communique said. "The capacity of these self-propelled barges is such that the resultant loss of life could have ranged into the hundreds."

Australians now are battling northwestward within five miles of Sio. In all, headquarters reported today the aerial and naval destruction of 43 more barges. At least 130 barges, including more than a score carrying troops, have been destroyed or damaged along the northeastern New Guinea coast since the invasion of Sidor stepped up the Allied offensive against Madang. In the Madang area, which has been hit by more than 1,000 tons of bombs since Jan. 1, headquarters announced a new 126-ton assault by Liberators against supply dumps and gun positions.

Rubbish Piling Up In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—(P)—City councilmen today termed striking public works department employees' demands for a flat 10 cents an hour wage increase "a holdup" and claimed they would have to impose new city taxes to grant the increase. Robert Loneragan, international representative of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union (AFL), said the 3,000 strikers wanted the increase with "no ifs, ands or buts," and added "they won't go back to work until they get it." Loneragan said the workers were ready to begin their second strike week today unless their demands are met. Meanwhile the litter in the city streets increased and rubbish and garbage remained uncollected as street cleaners, garbage collectors and water department employees stayed at home.

Plans For At Least 18 Months More Of Warfare Outlined

Chief Executive Advises Lawmakers That His Estimates Are Based on Assumption That Wage and Price Line Will Be Held

NATION FACING "CRUCIAL PERIOD IN HISTORY"

Washington, Jan. 13.—(P)—President Roosevelt laid before congress today his second $100,000,000,000 war-time budget, embodying plans for at least 18 months more of global conflict, but at the same time reflecting preparations to absorb the impact of sudden victory in Europe. For war activities alone the new budget projects expenditures of $90,000,000,000 in the fiscal year beginning July 1, on the assumption that the fighting will continue full tilt at least until mid-1945.

"We cannot rely with safety on hopes of earlier victory" in making actual plans," Mr. Roosevelt said. But he noted the possibility that victory on "one of the major fronts"—obviously the European—might be won earlier and said such a development would mean that much of the money he now requests would not have to be spent.

In order to be prepared for victory "whenever it comes," the president said that the essence of the government's program now stacked up in the budget is that "while we move toward complete defeat of our enemies, we must lay the groundwork to return the nation to peacetime pursuits." Mr. Roosevelt summed up the budget as "the financial requirements for victory." He included a demand for "a truly stiff fiscal program" providing at least $10,500,000,000 in new taxes on top of the $40,769,000,000 which he estimated present revenue laws will produce in fiscal 1945.

He also urged congress not to alter the contract renegotiation laws, under which war production costs can be whittled down, or the automatic doubling of the one percent social security levies which would have gone into effect January 1 except for congressional action temporarily delaying the effective date. He advised the lawmakers, too, that his estimates are based on the assumption that the wage and price line will be held.

Declaring that planning can not safely rely on "hopes," the president nevertheless voiced the "hope" that this total war program will never be fully obligated and spent. But its approval is essential, he added, "to permit our military leaders and our procurement agencies the flexibility they must have in planning and executing the job ahead."

Barring a European victory or other major development, the war program from the start of defense preparation in mid-1940 to June 30, 1945 will involve a total of $397,000,000,000—of which $292,000,000,000 will have been actually spent. The rest will represent unspent obligations in the form of contracts for future delivery. Describing the period covered by the budget as one that will be crucial in the history of the United States and of mankind, Mr. Roosevelt said late 1942 saw the end of defensive warfare, followed by "the period of aggressive deployment of our armed forces."

He said January 1944 marks the beginning of "offensive warfare," the last phase of the war. While foreseeing the twin possibilities of an unfavorable turn in military events or victory in Europe "earlier than anticipated," the president declared the time is at hand not only for wartime readjustments but for preparations for peace.

The budget sets aside 90 of the 100 billion dollars for "war activities," but Mr. Roosevelt said that in addition to his thin distinction (Turn To Page Eleven)

Comparison of Government Costs With Last Two Years

By the Associated Press

Here's the way the budget projected for a period that doesn't end until nearly 18 months hence stacks up with the latest estimates for current spending and the actual figures for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1943, and 1942 (in millions of dollars):

	1942	1943	Estimate	Estimate
War	90,000	92,000	75,085	28,266
Interest on debt	3,750	2,650	1,808	1,260
Veterans' pensions and benefits	1,252	865	600	552
Refunds (taxes and customs)	1,799	412	79	94
All other	2,953	3,524	3,583	4,479
Govt. corporations (expenditures and receipts)	15	-175	-1,476	-440
Total expenditures	99,769	99,276	79,679	34,211
Net receipts	40,769	41,186	22,282	12,799
Deficit	59,000	58,090	57,397	21,412

To meet the projected spending, Mr. Roosevelt said it would be necessary to ask for only $70,000,000,000 in new appropriations, compared with $100,000,000,000 in this fiscal year. Recommendations to reappropriate unobligated funds previously allotted, however, would make available $195,000,000,000 to be spent during the period July 1, 1944-June 30, 1945, and later. The total war program through the latter date will involve the staggering sum of $397,000,000,000.

Local Man Honored By Mystic Shrine

William E. Lutz, long active in local and district Shrine affairs, was advanced to the office of assistant raban when the annual meeting of Zem Zem Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine, was held Wednesday in Erie.

Warren was well represented in the meeting, when Lytle T. Salysbury, vice president of the Marine National Bank of Erie, was made potential succeeding Levi B. Taylor, of Greenville.

Also chosen was James T. Tate, of Erie, advanced to the office of chief raban; Lt. Cmdr. Ralph G. Merriman, dental surgeon in the U. S. Navy, as high priest and prophet. Elected to the office of Oriental guide was Bascomb Al-laway, of Erie.

In the meeting of Zem Zem Hospital for Crippled Children which followed, Horace A. Cray, of Warren, was reelected as a trustee and Mr. Lutz was elected to that body.

Pastor Accepts
Call To Local Congregation

In a telegram sent last evening to St. Paul's Lutheran church here, Rev. Nore Gustafson, of Stamford, Conn., accepted the parish call to become its minister. He did not advise the local officers when he and his wife and three children will come to Warren but stated a letter in more detail would follow his brief message.

St. Paul's has been without a regular pastor since Rev. Bertil Edquist resigned to go to Chicago in June of last year. Since that time Rev. Carl Anderson, of St. Peter, Minn., served for a time and Rev. P. E. Nordgren, of Kane, is the present supply.

Rev. Gustafson was graduated from Augustana Seminary at Rock Island, Ill., and went to Stamford 18½ years ago, immediately following his ordination.

Schools Doing Good Work In Tin Collection

Harrisburg, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Falls township school, Bucks county, led 629 Pennsylvania schools in December in the collection of prepared tin cans, the State Defense Council's salvage committee reported today.

Colley S. Baker, salvage committee secretary, said 470 pupils in the school collected an average of 256 prepared cans in the first month of the committee's competition for school children.

Nancy Werner, Washington school, Pottstown, in the same month gathered in 18,545 cans single-handed to lead all pupils in the 53 counties reporting.

Flags, which will be awarded permanently to the leading school in each county at the end of the six-month competition, will be retained a month by the school with the highest per pupil average in each county at the end of the six months, Baker added.

Target for Today: A German Sub

This German submarine was in for plenty of trouble when it was spotted, somewhere on the surface of the Atlantic, by three Navy Liberators and two Army planes. During the first of a series of attacks, a depth bomb—indicated by arrow at lower right—killed the frantically dodging U-boat. Another charge has just exploded near the enemy, which eventually was crippled and sunk.

LUDLOW

Ludlow, Jan. 8.—The Luther League of Ludlow Moriah church held a New Year's Eve at the church with Miss Edith Larson, president, presiding. A program began at 9:30 with hymns and Scripture reading and prayer. The following numbers were given: Reading, Rose Anderson; saxophone solo, Thomas Nelson; reading, John Johnson; song by congregation; reading, Mrs. Julius Swanson; piano solo, Robert Johnson; reading, Enoch Nelson; piano solo, Mrs. Raymond Shaffer. The program concluded with the collection and songs, after which a social hour was enjoyed until 11:30 when the congregation entered the church proper where the Reverend Carl Gronquist presided. Hymns, prayer and a short address were given and the new year was ushered in with a song and prayer. Regular services were held in the Lutheran and Mission churches on the Sunday following New Year's Day.

The Ladies' Aid of the Lutheran church met at the church parlors on Friday afternoon, January 7th. The president, Mrs. Mollie Mattison, opened the meeting with a hymn. The minutes were read and approved. The regular business meeting was held and the yearly officers were elected, as follows: President, Mrs. Mollie Mattison; vice president, Mrs. C. W. Swanson; secretary, Mrs. Albert Branstang; treasurer, Mrs. Elias Johnson; financial secretary, Mrs. Axel Anderson; pianist, Mrs. Emil Nelson; refreshment chairman, Mrs. Gust Carlson. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John Swanson and Mrs. Peter Nelson.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the Lutheran church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Adolph Johnson on Thursday evening, Jan. 6th. Miss Tillie Olson, president, conducted the meeting, opening the program with a hymn and prayer. The business meeting followed in which Mrs. Leroy Johnson gave the treasurer's report for 1943. Election of officers was held with the following results: President, Tillie Olson; vice president, Mrs. John Johnson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Leroy Johnson; pianist, Mrs. Algot Swanson. An interesting program concerning time devoted to missionary work was given, after which Mrs. Johnson served delicious refreshments. The Reverend Alfred Rant of Summit, N. J., formerly of Chandelers Valley, was a guest speaker at the Moriah Lutheran church on Sunday, Jan. 9th. His subject was "The Light of the World." He gave trial sermons before the Sheffield and Ludlow congregations with relation to the vacancy that will soon occur when the Rev. Carl Gronquist leaves in the near future to fill a pastorate in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Adolph Swanson was hostess to the Ladies' Aid of the Mission church at her home on Thursday evening, Jan. 6th. Swedish records formed the amusement for the evening. It was decided that no election of officers would be held but each hostess would take the responsibility for conducting the meeting she entertained.

Mrs. Walter Cox was hostess to the Tuesday Study Group on December 28th, at her home. The president, Mrs. Julius Swanson, presided. Mrs. C. W. Swanson, vice president, Mrs. Albert Branstang, treasurer, Mrs. Elias Johnson, financial secretary, Mrs. Axel Anderson; pianist, Mrs. Emil Nelson; refreshment chairman, Mrs. Gust Carlson. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John Swanson and Mrs. Peter Nelson.

Armour Ideas Make the Most of Meat

Here are Hamburgers Deluxe!

Yes, it's a grand solution to that perennial problem, "What shall I serve?" It's Hamburgers Deluxe... a big, substantial feast of good beef flavor—perfect for a family dinner or even a party supper.

You'll need so few ration stamps to serve these tasty hamburgers, that entertaining will become a pleasure once again! Just ask your meat man for 1 lb. of Armour's ground beef chuck, flank, round or neck. We suggest Armour's best for it's both tender and delicious... makes wonderfully juicy, tasty hamburgers. And what's more, Armour's beef is rich in proteins and other essential food values. Mix the meat with 1 1/2 tps. salt, 1 tsp. pepper, 1 1/2 tps. minced onion and 1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk. Shape into 6 flat patties. Heat 2 tps. bacon drippings in frying pan and put in patties, browning 3 minutes on each side. When cooked, transfer to halves of English muffins or buns which have been buttered and toasted. Serve with tomatoes and onion slices. ★ ARMOUR AND COMPANY

Scout Council Planning For Annual Meet

Friday evening, January 28, has been established as the date for the occasion of the 23rd annual meeting of the Warren County Council, Boy Scouts of America, it was learned this morning according to Dr. J. E. Richards, chairman of the council's annual meeting committee.

The meeting will, this year, be held at the North Warren Community House beginning with dinner at 6:30 p. m. Included in the program will be the president's message, a brief report of the Council's operating committees, approval of the application for the Council's charter renewal, the reports of the nominating and resolutions committees.

The recognition of Scout Troops and Cub Packs as a part of the Junior Citizens Service Corps, presentation of the Silver Beaver for Distinguished Service to Boyhood, and the recognition of Veteran Scouters, will be included in the ceremonies.

For the principal speaker the local council has been successful in securing the services of M. G. "Hap" Clark, assistant national director of the camping and activities service of troop committees, Pack Committees, Scoutmasters, Cubmasters, members of the Executive Board and operating committees of the council, leaders of the Civic Affairs of the borough and county as well as other adults interested in youth guidance.

ENTERS SPARS

Miss Josephine Pascarella, of West Hickory, well known in this city, leaves today to enter training at Palm Beach, Fla., with the SPARS, the Woman's Reserve of the Coast Guard. For several years she has been identified with the public assistance office at Tionesta. She has four brothers in the U. S. service: Lt. Louis Pascarella, in Mass.; Pvt. John Pascarella, paratrooper in the South Seas; Sgt. Theodore Pascarella, in Sicily and Pfc. Paul Pascarella, at Camp Butler, N. C.

TRAPPERS GET DOGS

Trappers running a string of traps near Althorn report that they are getting their share of foxes but that they are being bothered by the many dogs that get in their traps. Valuable dogs are being set free but many many dogs are being disposed of. Recently a big police dog was caught in one of the traps and sportsmen fail to see why such a dog was in the woods. Trappers over the county according to reports are meeting with rare good luck in getting foxes and some pelts are said to have been taken.

FREE BEER?—NO!

COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the Warren County Defense Council will be held in the office at 311 Market street at four o'clock Friday afternoon.

TICKETS TO FOLLIES

Skaters who do their Figure Eights and Grapevine on the Oakview Park ice have an opportunity to secure two of the best seats in the house to see the Ice Follies at Buffalo. An award will be made of a pair of tickets for any date that the show is on in Buffalo.

DANGER IS PAST

Evidently government officials feel that dangers from sabotage among the small war plants is at an end as they have given permission to numbers of plants about the country to do away with the guards at the plants. Two Warren industries have laid off the guards or put them in other positions.

DUCKS ON RIVER

West of Warren, near Starbrick, during the past few weeks large numbers of black and white ducks have made their home on the river. They enjoy life to the utmost floating in the ice cold water and roosting on the ice. The birds have won plenty of attention and due to the number at the spot several have driven down from Warren to see them.

NEW SECRETARY

William C. Wenzel has been named general secretary of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association with headquarters in Oil City. He succeeds S. F. Pratt resigned. He has been associated for the past year with the administration of the petroleum industry in wartime activities and prior to that was connected with oil companies and the petroleum division of Dunn and Bradstreet.

BURNED BEAN POLES

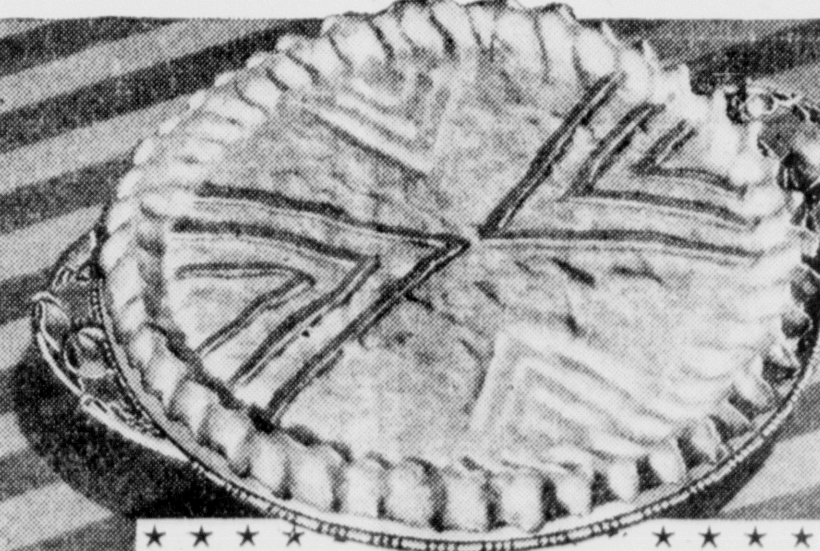

Just because they go careless in picking out their material for a fire will cost a lot of kids their fun of skating on ice near the Pennsylvania railroad at Ludlow and Penn avenue. The kids used the bean poles out of a garden there as fuel for their fire. Over 300 were burned. The owner of the bean poles waxed extreme wrath over the matter and called the police. He will put up a "No Trespassing" sign and the cops will do the rest.

DELAY POLICE PENSIONS

Warren's Town Council which has been delving into the proposed pension law for police today received word that Deputy Attorney General Orville Brown said today that payments to Pennsylvania Police Pension Funds, scheduled under a law of 1943 will be delayed until a further clarification of the law is made by the next legislature. The act provides police pension funds in political subdivisions shall be paid half of the two percent premium taxes collected from out-of-state casualty insurance companies. Warren's councilmen went into the matter deeply and at the last Council meeting it was determined to wait until some later date before any action was taken toward setting up a pension fund here. The action of the Town Council seems to have been well taken.

GIANT BATTLE OVER GERMANY

In the opinion of DeWitt MacKenzie, Associated Press war analyst, America's air-fleet administered a major defeat, physical and moral, to the Hitlerites in Tuesday's giant battle over Germany. He sums up the results as follows:

"We have carried our attack to the very heart of Nazi defensive strength—a grand achievement. We have done great damage to three of the chief aircraft assembly plants of the hard-pressed Reich, thereby inflicting a grievous wound on enemy aircraft production at the crucial moment of the war when the Nazis are girding themselves for invasion of western Europe.

"Our airmen shot down some hundred fighter planes. But only the Germans know how many hundreds of aircraft were destroyed in the plants at Oschersleben, Halberstadt and Brunswick. Only the Germans can say how much their warplane production has been cut down by this attack, but it undoubtedly is large.

"We did a good job. I hear a lot of folk trying to estimate the value of that daring operation by the number of men and aircraft we lost. Certainly a loss of 595 men and sixty-four war-planes, including fifty-nine huge bombers, is a tough blow. But you just can't figure the thing on that basis.

"When our air command considers such an attack the cardinal question to be asked is: Are the objectives worth the risk? If that can be answered with a 'yes,' then the project is justifiable. It would remain justifiable even if the attack failed of its purpose through no fault of our forces.

"What, say you, would it cost in lives, time and money to battle our way across western Europe with a land army to those three German cities and destroy the aircraft plants? The answer is that every time we carry out a successful air assault we are doing the work of a great ground force.

"We shall have a chance to check on that before long, when we put our army of invasion ashore in western Europe. And it's well for us to get our minds adjusted to the idea that we are going to see some very heavy Allied losses. Tuesday's unprecedented air battle was a mild preview of what we must expect at the time of invasion, and our casualties in landing troops will be hard to bear.

"Two points strike me as calling for our special thought in connection with this air battle. The first is that, while the Germans are on the down-grade, they still retain great defensive power. They no longer are able to carry out the vast bombing attacks which they staged early in the war, because they have been forced to cut their production of bombers down to a whisper and devote their energies to building the defensive fighter plane. But their fighter force has gained in proportion, as they demonstrated Tuesday.

"The second point develops naturally as a corollary to the first. Because of this Nazi air strength, and because of the increasingly heavy losses we shall have as we prepare for and inaugurate the invasion, we are in great need of more and still more intensification of warplane production. That's where the home front gets into the fight.

"Do you know that one of those heavy bombers has more than half a million parts, not including maybe 700,000 rivets? It used to take about 200,000 man hours to build one of these big fellows, though this time has been reduced.

"Last, but far from least, the Allied air assault on Germany from the west is playing its part in the continuing successes of the Red armies. The Anglo-American air navies are destroying Germany's war industries and supplies, and they are forcing the Nazis to defend themselves in the air with power which they urgently need on the Russian front.

ECONOMIC WARFARE

(From The Stars and Stripes)

There's more to winning a global war than just shooting bullets through a gun.

For example, the United States Government has just brought up the entire crop of pyrethrum flowers from the Brazilian government. That means American soldiers will have a spray, made from flowers, that will protect them against disease-carrying insects far more dangerous than bullets. The spray, issued to troops in the tropics, protects them against insects carrying such diseases as malaria, yellow fever, typhus and cholera. The United States used to get it pyrethrum from Japan; but now we get all we need from Brazil.

So while our ships, planes and tanks engage the enemy in many theatres of war, our dollars are engaged in economic battle. In Brazil, its pyrethrum; in Argentina, it's meat and leather; in Spain, it's rare metals. American dollars have entered every neutral country and in a battle royal, they have beaten the enemy almost without exception, thus saving the lives of countless American and Allied soldiers by securing vital war materials which in our possession are denied the enemy.

That's economic warfare — and your purchase of war bonds makes new victories possible.

The Way It Will Probably Work Out

Washington in Wartime

By HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON—The little man had forgotten his badge.

There he was, in a building housing several war agencies, well past the deadline for leaving, and he didn't have his badge so he could check out. The building guards are ready for such people. They must write their name on a large signature sheet, explain where they've been and record the hour of their departure.

The little man uncapped his fountain pen, methodically filled in the designated line and went quietly on his way, out the door and into the crisp night air. The guard looked down at the signature sheet.

There, in a firm round hand, the little man who forgot his badge had written a single neat and expressive word: "Phooey!"

GETTING the news out of war production these days is a soft touch compared with a few months ago.

And therein lies the best story of all—the positive tipoff that the tough first lap of the production battle is won and the United States' heralded "arsenal of democracy" is turning out the tools.

In two years reporters of the war production assignment have seen the situation change completely from the hush-hush days when they couldn't even find out for sure that a training plane was being built. Now they can pry loose complete stories, with dates and figures on armament programs long before they are completed—sometimes before they are begun.

The story behind it is the fact that in the beginning war production figures had to be kept secret so the enemy wouldn't know what kind of military weapons the United States was storing up for a crack at him.

Now he's been cracked several times the hard way. He knows what we are producing and officials are reasonably sure he's lost the power to do much about it. So, although still cautious, they're a little more willing to talk about what's going on in America's machine shops.

But they just talk about the things the enemy already knows. You can't read the stories about war production, for example, and get any hint of what, or how many, secret and unused weapons are coming out of the war plants.

WHEN you pick up a Washington telephone these days you may be talking for posterity.

In one of the big government buildings vital to the war, incoming telephone conversations are recorded and filed away. Recording, are made of the phone calls of a least some of the cabinet officers.

Secretaries, listening on extensions, take a shorthand record of telephone talks with other officials. It's all part of the war-time precautions against information leaks to the wrong people.

What It Means

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When the shooting is over, it is not unlikely that a big share of the victory credit will go to something about which so little is known, that it's almost a "secret weapon."

It is 100-octane gasoline. Some idea of the potent part this high-powered motor fuel has played in the war may be gained from this statement of Geoffrey Lloyd, Great Britain's Petroleum Secretary: "I think we wouldn't have won the Battle of Britain without 100-octane gasoline—but we did have 100-octane gasoline."

Much of that 100-octane was taken over in tankers from the first two American refineries.

Examination of captured German supplies shows that the Nazis have something approximating 100-octane too, but petroleum experts here do not believe Germany has sufficient refining capacity to supply it even for all her fighter planes. It is believed the Germans have designed their engines to take best advantage of the gasoline they have (much of it is made from coal), but general performance of their motors does not come up to ours.

Just what is 100-octane gasoline? During experimentation on high-power, no-knock fuels, Dr. Graham Edgar, a Detroit chemist, discovered that one of the substances in petroleum, called isooctane, could be used as a fuel itself and would not knock in the highest-compression motors then in existence. But engine designers soon caught up with it and in 1935 the Army ordered 100,000 gallons and later 1,000,000 gallons—at about $2 a gallon. The price is now down to less than 15 cents.

In 1940 American refineries were turning out 30,000 barrels of 100-octane a day. When the Japs struck Pearl Harbor they were making 46,000 barrels a day. Overnight it became necessary to expand production to almost inconceivable volume. Petroleum technicians came to bat with new processes (many of them still secret), built new refineries "out of a hat" and—perhaps most startling of all—found out how to get 4.2 gallons of 100-octane out of every barrel of crude oil where before they had been getting only 21/100 of a gallon.

Exact production figures are kept dark, but it can be said that the output is now more than four times what it was Dec. 7, 1941, and that within a few months it will be eight times greater.

trying to increase the power of engines by compressing the air-gasoline mixture into a smaller cylinder head space, but they found that the gasoline of that day would "knock," causing the engine to overheat and lose power.

In 1922, after countless experiments, Dr. Edgar discovered that the addition of a minute quantity of tetraethyl lead to gasoline made from selected crude oils would raise that gasoline to 87-octane. However, the process worked only up to that point; adding still more "ethyl fluid" didn't have enough more effect to be worth while.

Then scientists found that the higher the "base stock" octane rating, the higher the rating would be when the lead compound was added. The problem then switched to one of raising the base stock rating. This was accomplished by experiments which resulted in producing isooctane at a much lower price by the "hydrogenation" process, which was imported, incidentally, from Germany.

New Fuel Too Potent

By 1934, 100-octane gasoline was being made by adding isooctane to high-test gas, then adding tetraethyl. Actually the new fuel was too potent for the highest-compression aviation engine then in existence, but engine designers soon caught up with it and in 1935 the Army ordered 100,000 gallons and later 1,000,000 gallons—at about $2 a gallon. The price is now down to less than 15 cents.

In 1940 American refineries were turning out 30,000 barrels of 100-octane a day. When the Japs struck Pearl Harbor they were making 46,000 barrels a day. Overnight it became necessary to expand production to almost inconceivable volume. Petroleum technicians came to bat with new processes (many of them still secret), built new refineries "out of a hat" and—perhaps most startling of all—found out how to get 4.2 gallons of 100-octane out of every barrel of crude oil where before they had been getting only 21/100 of a gallon.

Exact production figures are kept dark, but it can be said that the output is now more than four times what it was Dec. 7, 1941, and that within a few months it will be eight times greater.

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

In 1924

Before Sheriff W. W. Muir leaves office there will be a great destruction of intoxicating liquors which are stored there. Several kinds of home brew and many bottles of whiskey of various sorts will be dumped.

Merchants of the city are evincing great interest in the Poultry Show which will open in the Armory January 14. Many are offering special prizes. Entries are coming in rapidly and the show will be one of the best ever held here.

Elmer H. Jones, well known Warren showman is planning on putting out a wild west show this coming summer. He will have it cover an extensive tour and then play fair grounds as an attraction at fairs this coming fall. He is now operating Cole Brothers Show.

Albert Henry and a crew of four men from the Hammond Iron Works have gone to Portsmouth, Ohio where they will erect a large water tower for the Norfolk and Western Railroad.

Workmen have been busy for the past few days redecorating the Rectory of Trinity Memorial church. The Rev. Ware and family will arrive in the city during the next few days and the Rev. Ware will take up his duties here.

In 1934

At a meeting of the Marconi Society A. F. Guffire was elected as president of the organization. The committee in charge of the new home of the organization which will be located in the former Tribune building reports that alterations are going forward rapidly and that it is expected to occupy it before the next meeting.

After hitting a new low for 1932 of 217 weddings in the county Old Cupid bounced back during 1933 and drew his bow and sent an arrow whirling in 252 affairs. In 1932 there were only 217 marriage licenses issued.

The Young People's Society of the Irvine church is holding its regular meeting this evening and a sauer kraut supper will be a feature of the occasion.

There are approximately 85 persons working on CWA projects in the town of Sheffield. Nearly all of the work is being done on the streets and the progress is slow due to the weather.

Dorcas G. Kropf, aged 32 will arrive in town today to become head of the Warren Fire Department. He is a fireman with years of experience and student of the fire fighting game. He has conducted many schools for firemen throughout New York state and has a reputation for being one of the best firemen in southwestern New York.

WARTIME MIGRATION

Since the war the shift of population in the United States has been toward the west and the south with a total population shift of about two and a half million persons.

BARNES

Barnes, Jan. 10.—Raymond Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Allen, is up around the house again, after being confined to his bed for the past three months, on account of injuries to his back which he received when he fell from a tree. Mr. and Mrs. Allen received a cablegram from their oldest son, Benjamin, Jr., extending holiday greetings. He is a cook in the U. S. Navy, and the cablegram is the only word they have had from him since he left for sea duty about six weeks ago.

A telephone call from their son, Lt. Bert R. Hover, from Rolla, Missouri, Sunday evening, informed Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hover that he is being returned to the Officers' Candidate School at Fort Sill, Okla., for another month of study. Mrs. Hover and their infant daughter have been living at Rolla, Missouri, while he has been stationed at Fort Leonard Wood and will go on to Fort Sill with him.

Miss Mary Alice Rudolph, who is employed in Warren, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rudolph, Sunday.

Mrs. W. D. Barnes returned to her home here Saturday, after spending several days as the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Raymond Gilman, in Warren. She and Mrs. Gilman attended funeral services in Spartansburg Monday for her brother, John W. Richardson.

The Adult Bible Class of the Barnes Methodist Sunday school will meet at the home of Mrs. W. D. Barnes Thursday afternoon for its monthly business and social meeting. Rev. Russell will conduct the regular Bible study.

James Whitton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Whitton, is ill of the measles. So many of the younger pupils in the local school have had measles that only three or four were present last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Carlson of Jamestown, N. Y., were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rudolph last Friday evening. The Carlson families had visited their father, Scott Smith, who is a surgical patient in the Warren General Hospital, earlier in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Curtin spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers at their home in Sheffield.

Mrs. Wilbert Bramer of Sheffield entertained the Thimble Club at her home in Sheffield last Wednesday evening. It had been necessary to postpone the club's Christmas party, so gifts were ex-

Army Seeks 17 Year Olds For Service

An unusual opportunity is being offered young men of the 17 year age who are interested in the U. S. Navy, it has been announced by E. J. Anderson, in charge of recruiting in Jamestown, and every applicant who can meet the physical requirements, and then passes a test in radio, can be enlisted as a seaman first class, rather than an apprentice seaman. The former rating is comparable in base pay to that of a corporal in the Marine corps or Army.

The test is given to recruits at the main station in Buffalo, and then the individual is retained at that point on an inactive duty status until the outcome of the test is known. In the event they pass, they are immediately rated seaman first class.

Upon the successful completion of the course in radio instruction, they are then rated first class petty officers, the next to the highest non-commissioned officer rating in the Naval service.

Another opportunity being offered 17 year old young men by the Navy is ratings in the hospital corps. Those who have had Red Cross first aid training, and their qualifications meet the standards of the Navy medical department, can be enlisted with the ratings of Hospital apprentice second class, leading up to pharmacist's ratings in the petty officer group. These ratings in base pay are comparative respectively with those of seamen first and second class.

Young men interested in these service branches are urged to contact the Navy recruiting station at Jamestown for further details.

COLE HILL

Cole Hill, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Lola Richards celebrated her eightieth birthday at her home on the Marcia Ann road last Tuesday, Jan. 4th. She received some nice birthday gifts and cards.

Arch Bristow of Warren, while visiting his sisters the Misses Eva and Mabel Bristow at Garland, fell on the ice and fractured his hip. His friends here are sorry to hear of the accident.

Miss Marion Holmes who was spending her Christmas vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Seth Holmes returned to Houghton College Tuesday. She was accompanied back to school by the Misses Evelyn Moffett of Greenville, Margaret Van Guilder of Grand Valley, Marie Pierce of Titusville, Leila Pierce of Sanford.

Mrs. Sadie McChesney of Ross Hill and Arthur McChesney of Indiantown Gap were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Martin.

Arthur McChesney who was home on furlough visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred McChesney at Ross Hill returned to Indiantown Gap Sunday.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson on the Garland and Torpedo road were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Goodwill and daughter Mary Lou and Dorothy Jane of Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Don Abraham and daughters Patricia and Barbara of Youngsville, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goodwill and daughter Nancy of Warren.

Lee Benedict of Ross Hill celebrated his twelfth birthday here at the home of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Eastman last Friday Jan. 7th. A birthday supper was served including a birthday cake. He returned home Saturday.

Anne Nodzak celebrated her birthday Saturday Jan. 8th at the home of her sister Mrs. Theresa Pavlock at Youngsville.

FARMINGTON UNIT

After the routine opening of the Farmington P. T. A., a clarinet solo was played by Olive Mae Cowles and reports were presented. Mrs. Nelson reported between 50 and 60 hot lunches being served daily, with expenses maintained so far. Mr. Ormer explained the necessity of knowing in advance how many were to be served the following day. He announced, also, that the ways and means committee had recommended serving a lunch at the next meeting, with a charge, and a play put on by the unit some time in February. Both suggestions were approved by the group.

Lucy Lindell reported a Service Club balance of $43.55 and was appointed with Doris Stanton, to act as a committee from the unit on the service club staff. Mrs. Hedges thanked those who had brought waste fat for the collection and it was voted to use the money received from oil sale for the movie machine. All members were urged to attend the next meeting, when a Founders' Day program will be presented; also to save all waste paper. The treasurer reported a balance of $27.92 and penny collection of $1.70 to go to Miss Bracey's room.

Mrs. Cable introduced Lenor Jordan for a talk on her juvenile problems and work. After the closing song, "Jingle Bells", refreshments were served by the teachers.

A thousand ships were wrecked off Cape Cod during the first 20 years of this century, according to estimates.

MUNICIPAL RECREATION INTEREST IS GROWING

Harrisburg, Jan. 12.—Interest in providing adequate recreational facilities seems to be growing in Pennsylvania, says the State Department of Commerce.

Recently, Palmerton's borough council authorized the purchase of 18 acres of land for the purpose of erecting a swimming pool and providing other recreational facilities for the residents of that community and its visitors. While the work will not be started until the close of the war, nevertheless the plans are well under way.

Butler is also considering plans to provide additional facilities for the residents of that section. Thought is being given to the suggestion that the county purchase Alameda Park and extend its facilities. In Butler, said a representative of the city council, "a much needed project is a public swimming pool."

The city recreational needs were discussed in a forum of the Rotary Club before which organization appeared a number of members of the city's official body.

Many Never Suspect Cause Of Backaches

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pen and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes in your body, and waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Wise Advice about getting a LOAN

DON'T borrow unnecessarily, but if a loan is to your advantage, come to Personal where you pay only for the actual time you keep the money. For example: $30 for 2 weeks costs less than 50c.

SOME OTHER ADVANTAGES

A loan here establishes your credit nationwide in almost 400 affiliated offices. Sensible monthly payments you can afford are arranged. We want to serve you. There's no "going-you-a-favor" attitude.

Loans are made on signature, furniture, auto. Sensible monthly payments you can afford arranged. Special women's service. 1-visit loans. Also loans-by-mail. Come in, phone or write.

Navy Newlyweds Myrtle Lawson Is are Honeymooning Wednesday Bride Here With Family Of Private Wallin

Spending part of their honeymoon in town with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hinton, 20 Elm street, are Frank Henry Hinton, USN, and his bride, the former Ida Louise Able, R. N., daughter of Mrs. Rosezetta Able, of Waterford, Conn.

Mrs. Hinton was a guest at the wedding, which took place at 7:30 p. m. January 5 in the home of the bride's mother. Rev. Philip Chamberlain, pastor of the First Baptist church of Waterford, read the service.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Josiah Mosier, who was also the best man, and her maid of honor was Helen Daglian. She wore powder blue with matching hat and a gardenia corsage and Miss Daglian wore navy frock and hat and similar corsage.

A reception for relatives and a few friends followed and the couple left for an unannounced destination for their wedding trip.

Mrs. Hinton attended Jordan School and was graduated from Chapman Technical High School in 1938. She is a 1943 graduate of the Joseph Lawrence School of Nursing and is on the nursing staff of the Lawrence Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Hinton, boatswain's mate first class, attended Hatch Run school and was graduated from Warren High School in 1937. He has been in the Panama Canal Zone for the past two years and has now been assigned to an eastern post.

At eight o'clock last evening in First Lutheran church, Dr. H. A. Rinard read the service uniting in marriage Myrtle Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lawson, 231 1/2 North Carver street, and Pvt. Gerald Wallin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wallin, of Prospect street. Mrs. Dorothy Engstrom, organist, played "I Love You Truly" and the traditional wedding march.

The bride wore a cherry red suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Joyce Lawson, who wore pale blue and a red rose corsage. Mrs. Lawson wore an orchid suit, brown accessories and red rose corsage.

Norman Huck was best man for Pvt. Wallin.

All-white appointments were carried out for the reception for more than 50 guests, following immediately in the parish house.

The couple left today for California, where the young soldier is stationed and where they will make their home for the present.

TIMES TOPICS

AWARDED LAYETTE

The handsome layette prepared by women of the Salvation Army to be given to the wife of the first Warren county soldier becoming a mother in 1944 has been awarded to Private and Mrs. Melville Dias, of Warren RD 3. The layette was most complete and is something that any young mother would appreciate.

FIRST BOY KILLED

The communication received yesterday from the War Department by Mr. and Mrs. Lorentz Lindberg, of Warren RD 3, recalls to many that Sgt. Arthur M. Torrey, of Warren, is believed to have been the first local young man to give his life in action in the present war. He was killed over Lille, France, on October 9, 1942.

DIXON HEADS COMPANY

Castro Dixon has purchased a block of stock in the Warren Soda and Mineral Water Company, Fourth avenue and has assumed charge of the business. Thomas Meneo has disposed of some of his stock to Mr. Dixon and the interest in the Warren National Bank has been taken over by Mr. Dixon. The business of the company will be continued as heretofore.

WILL NAME PARK

The committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars appointed to secure a name for the park to be located in Pleasant township by the organization has been offered a large number of suggestions. It is proposed to secure a name that carries an historical connection, if possible, one incidental to this section. The VFW is moving slowly in developing plans for the park in an effort to secure a permanent plan by which to work toward a definite goal in beautification of the lands and installing of buildings, pool, etc.

Extension Association Meet One of Best Ever Held Here

The twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Warren County Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Association will go down in history as perhaps the most interesting and profitable session ever held. Almost the complete program as arranged was given and there were but few who failed to fill their places.

The morning session was thoroughly interesting and the reports presented were highly enlightening and most satisfactory. The projects reported upon were:

- 4-H leaders training meeting—Mrs. W. G. Lyon, Lander.
- 4-H Clothing and Lunch Boxes—Mrs. Idella Jones, of McGraw.
- 4-H Clothing Club—Mrs. Margaret Huck, North Warren.
- 4-H Lunch Boxes—Margaret Crooks, Corydon.
- Adult Extension Work—Mrs. Ira Johnson, Chancellors Valley.
- Food Preservation Methods—Mrs. Doris Beebe, Pleasant Township.
- 4-H Pig Clubs—Rev. Andrews, Spartansburg.
- Emergency Farm Labor—H. L. Blair, Warren.
- Hog Pasture—Henry Ward, Warren.
- Spray Ring—Charles Camp, Torpedo.
- Victory Gardens—E. W. Johnson, Warren.
- Bangs Disease—Walter Ward, Warren.

Reports of Extension Representatives, Mrs. Thelma Prendergast and O. C. Tritt.

Adjournment was then taken for the dinner hour. This was a joint affair with the Kiwanis Club of Warren furnishing the entertainment. A most excellent chicken and biscuit dinner was served and then President Stanley Lawrence spoke briefly and introduced Carl Anderson, of the Warren Kiwanis Club, and the Kiwanis Committee which had the entertainment in charge of Messrs. Loper, Blomquist, Winans and Stewart. Mrs. W. G. Lyon headed the dinner committee for the Extension Association.

During the dining, music was furnished under the direction of Harry Summers, of high school music department, the players being Nick Geracimos, Patty Murray, North Warren and Eleanor Peters, of Irvine.

Officers were chosen with all re-elected with the exception of Mrs. Lloyd Price, as secretary, due to the fact that she is unable to care for the work. Mrs. W. G. Lyon, of Lander, was elected to that post. The officers of the organization are: President, Stanley Lawrence; Lloyd Wilcox, Akeley, 1st vice-president; Ira Johnson, Sugar Grove, 2nd vice-president; Amell Carter, Bear Lake, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. W. G. Lyon, Lander, secretary and Homer Mead, treasurer.

The panel discussion held during the afternoon was introduced by Mrs. Prendergast and was led by Miss Margaret Little, Child Care specialist of State College. The speakers were: Eleanor Peters, of Irvine; Mrs. William Lightner and Dudley King, of North Warren; Rev. Wayne Furman, Warren; Doctor Rosenzweig, State Hospital; Mrs. L. C. Jordan, Warren and R. R. Young Warren.

"The Feed Situation and what We Can Do About It" was treated by R. H. Olmstead, dairy specialist of Pennsylvania State College. His address was one in which every farmer is vastly interested and suggested several highly important items for the listeners.

B. L. Edinger, of State College, also gave a highly interesting talk near the close of the session.

FARM NEWS

Harrisburg, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture's crop reporting service said today that prices paid Pennsylvania farmers for principal agricultural products remained fairly steady during the month ended December 15, compared with the previous 30-day period.

Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture, pointed out all grains showed price advances of from two to eight cents a bushel and added "during the current feed shortage farmers are the biggest buyers of feed grains and are paying proportionately more for processed feeds than they can get through selling the grain."

"Relatively few farmers have grain to sell," he declared, "and the average farm has only enough home-grown feed grains to last through February."

The crop reporting service said Pennsylvania farmers averaged $1.36 for any grain they might have sold during the month, an advance of eight cents a bushel from November.

"The recent raising of the ceiling price nine cents to $1.16 at Chicago apparently has had little effect on the Pennsylvania supply and many farmers must pay at least $1.50 to $1.60 per bushel or more," the agency said.

mid-December was 215, unchanged from November. On the same basis, the prices paid by farmers for all living and operating expenses showed an index of 168, an advance of one point over November. On the other hand, farmers' purchasing power dropped one point, to 128—compared with 116 a year ago.

All livestock prices received by Pennsylvania farmers were the same in December as in November except for hogs which dropped 40 cents to $13.60 per hundred pounds, live weight.

Officials of the Harrisburg district Office of Price Administration have announced the conditions under which dividends may be paid by regional Farmers' Cooperative Associations to patrons under price regulations, even when such dividends plus original payments will result in a return in excess of established ceiling prices.

OPA officials said the move was taken "to avoid interference with the Farmers' Cooperative Association's established method of meeting agricultural commodities."

Under the new regulations, "Patronage dividends" may be paid if the co-operative meets the following conditions:

"1—The association is chartered under the laws of the state and meets the requirements of the Capper-Volstead Farm Co-Operative act.

"2—The association must not be one which was or is controlled in any way by a non-co-operative business organization; nor can the income of its members be guaranteed; nor can it pay excessive or unusual compensation for services rendered and it must not handle a greater proportion of non-member business in any fiscal year than it handled in the calendar or fiscal year of 1943.

"3—The patronage dividend can not be paid before the end of the association's fiscal year or at intervals of not less than six months, if the association regularly closes its books at such intervals."

WILL WAR TRUMP EUROPE'S KINGS?

AP Features

ALREADY THE IMPACT OF WAR threatens the thrones of Europe. Guerrillas who fought on alone resent many of the governments-in-exile. Revolution is on the march. In the convulsions that may rend Europe in the last days of war and the first days of peace, many a king may tumble. Here are some possibilities.

EMMANUEL, Italy

GEORGE, Greece

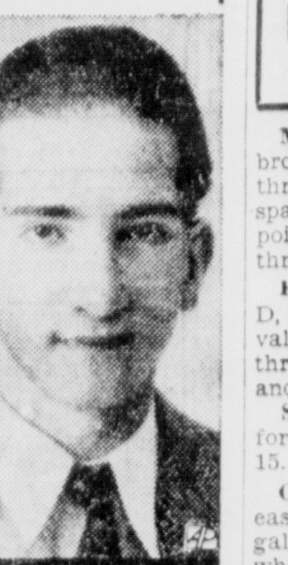

MICHAEL, Rumania

SIMEON, Bulgaria

ZOG, Albania

PETER, Yugoslavia

Though he belatedly turned to the Allies, liberals are calling on him to abdicate now.

Guerrillas have sent word to him to stay away until the people call him back home.

As Russians surge toward his kingdom this Nazi puppet's uneasy rule is shaken.

The regency of this child king totters as brother Slavs, Russians, sweep on westward.

He fled before fascist invaders, may find his country in path of Balkan revolution.

Already Tito's rival partisan government challenges his right to return to throne.

How to RUIN DRESSES AND LOSE FRIENDS

It's tragic how some girls lose their friends and ruin their dresses because of perspiration odor and stains. And there's no excuse for it! It's easy to save dresses, it's easy to save friends. Use Arrid, the new cream deodorant that helps keep your armpits dry and removes the odor from perspiration. Arrid is safe and dependable for these 5 reasons:

1. Does not irritate skin. Does not rot dresses or men's shirts.
2. Prevents under-arm odor. Helps stop perspiration safely.
3. A pure white, antiseptic, stainless cream.
4. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
5. Awarded Approval Seal of American Institute of Laundering—harmless to fabric. Use Arrid regularly.

Arrid is the largest selling deodorant. Sold at all stores selling toilet goods—10c, 39c and 59c a jar.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Jan. 5—The Reading Club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Scott Stuart, with the president Mrs. Allan Frank presiding. Miss Ruth Perlin gave a report of the book "The Apostle", a novel based on the life of St. Paul, by Sholem Asch, author of the Nazarene. The next three meetings will be given to the study of the novel, from the book, Silas Marner. Mrs. J. A. McIntosh, will be hostess to the next meeting. Mrs. Frank Dorn entertained the Bridge Club, Monday evening with three tables of bridge played. Mrs. Charles White and Mrs. Gerald Miller were guests.

Vincent Allenson, son of John Allenson, who left for service in the Air Corps, in September is now attending a technical school at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo.

Relatives of the two Sugar Grove boys have received letters telling them of Lt. Stuart Perlin and Lt. David Landin, meeting in England for Christmas. Both boys are pilots in the Air Force. The former having been in England about eight months and Lt. Landin reaching there recently.

Mrs. Merle Devereaux is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whiting at Fredonia.

Pvt. James Frank on leave from Fort McCain, Miss. left Wednesday evening to spend two days with his brother William Frank and family at Walton, N. Y.

Mrs. William Olksky has been spending some time in Cleveland, Ohio, with her sister who has been ill with pneumonia.

Born to Technical Sergeant Theodore Wilson of Drew Field, Fla., and Donna Thorpe Wilson of Sugar Grove, a son at the WCA hospital, Jamestown, January 4, 1944.

Midshipman Donald W. Haggerty, returned to Annapolis, Md. Saturday.

W. W. Williams who has been ill several weeks is slowly improving.

Miss Helen Abbott of Pittsburgh, who was the weekend guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Abbott, left Sunday afternoon to spend two days with her sister, Miss Jane Abbott at Erie before returning to Pittsburgh.

William Miller, C. S. P. of Bainbridge, Md., with his wife, were weekend guests of their mother, Mrs. H. Y. Miller, and guests at a family dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Miller, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cody were weekend guests of their daughter, Mrs. Richard Hensler and family of Buffalo.

Garland

Ethel Wentworth and Russell Parker were united in marriage during the Christmas holidays. Both have been employed by the Irwin Lumber Co. in Garland. The bride is daughter of Bert McCollough of this place. Mr. Parker is a resident of Union City. Garland friends extend their very best wishes for happiness.

Mrs. H. G. Irwin, Sr., has been taken to Cleveland for treatment. She has been ill for several weeks. The family has made many friends in Garland who sincerely hope she may soon regain her health.

Very few Garlandites have escaped an attack of "flu". Sickness has prevailed here throughout the holidays.

Dr. Knapp put his car out of commission on making a professional call here this week and Norman Taylor took him back to his home.

Aged Mrs. Hayworth, living at the home of the Chapmans, has been seriously ill for some time. Friends of the Brooks family are glad to have the move back to Torpedo.

The Trapp family has received word that their son, Richard, has embarked for service abroad.

Esther Conklin, who has been employed in the Garland factory, has been taken to the State Hospital for treatment.

Garland friends of Arch Bristow were sorry to hear of the accident that befell him when he fell on the icy ground after putting his sister's car in. He and his sisters had been in attendance at a community gathering at the home of a neighbor. He lay for some time on the cold ground, unable to get up, having suffered a fractured hip, until he attracted the attention of his sisters. He is now in the Warren hospital. His many friends here sincerely hope he will make a satisfactory recovery and be back on his feet soon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Graham have purchased the Michael Jordan property here and plan to repair and occupy the same soon.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store. (adv.)

Global War Doesn't Halt Industry Fight On Polio

By NEA Service New York, Jan. 13—Gearing to a round-the-clock schedule of production for total war, American industry still finds time, energy and materials to give to the home-front fight against the children's enemy, infantile paralysis; to meet emergent needs when that battle is at its worst.

When the epidemic of 1943 hit Bridgeport, Conn., mechanical washing machines and wringers to handle the hot packs used in the Kenney system of treatment for polio patients were greatly needed. New ones were not to be had.

Appealed to for help, the Remington Arms plant of General Electric made a quick survey of available materials and carefully studied the needs of the hospitals. A machine was required that could be quickly moved from bed to bed. Out of used and scrap parts—ranging, refrigerators, washers and water heaters—recut and reshaped to their new task, such a machine was put together.

Rushed to the Englewood Hospital, this oddly-contrived labor saver was put through its paces and proved the answer to a desperate prayer.

In nearby Hartford, the same situation prevailed and another busy war plant, the Bauer Electric Company, designed and built another machine to heat, sterilize and wring out the hot packs with effortless ease.

At the same time, the epidemic of poliomyelitis had hit the middle west, where there was also lack of equipment. The Edison Q-B Appliance Company of Chicago, without breaking its war production stride, answered the cry of Chicago's hospitals and evolved a similar machine from the makings of its pre-war electric dishwasher-sink.

The 1943 epidemic of infantile paralysis was the worst in 12 years, striking viciously in many parts of the nation. Urgent pleas for supplies, for trained people to help fight the plague, swamped the offices of the National Foundation and its nearly 3000 local chapters.

Tons of wool were needed for the hot packs used to relieve painful muscle spasms. That need was met through the cooperation of government agencies, civilian contribution, and the paper mills. In the manufacture of paper, high grade wool woven into felt and wrapped around rollers plays an important part in absorbing moisture from the paper as it emerges from the presses. When these felts are no longer serviceable to the paper mills, they still are valuable for hot packs for polio treatments. After cleaning, they are shipped to hospitals all over America.

In the year past, the American Paperboard Association donated nearly 15 tons of these wool felts to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The height of the 1943 epidemic came just when the problem of transportation was at its worst. But cargoes were shifted to make room for medical supplies and respirators. Trains and planes were held the few minutes necessary to enable doctors and nurses, answering frantic pleas for help, to catch the only one that would get there in time. With less than enough for their own needs, the railroads and airlines of America found time and space for the needs of the nation's children.

DEATH of a Saboteur By Hulbert Footner

Chapter 27

ARRIVING at the hotel in Berkeley a few minutes before three, they were taken to the room upstairs where Linder and the young man from the Russian consulate were waiting.

Linder said: "As far as we know, Mrs. Crispin has not come home yet. Her car is standing by the curb across the street. She does not use it for her trips into San Francisco."

The Russian, producing a pack of cards, suggested a game of bridge while they waited.

After several hands had been dealt, Linder said suddenly, "Here she is!" And immediately afterwards: "Somebody is bringing her home."

They glanced out the window. A black limousine had drawn up in front of the apartment house opposite. A handsome woman in black was crossing from car to entrance door, followed by Count Deduchin. Both were smiling.

"Welby," said Lee, "go take a gander without showing yourself. If the young Frenchman is in the car we must find a means of warning him."

In five minutes Welby returned. "Raoul is not with them; only two of Deduchin's thugs."

"Find a telephone," said Lee. "Call up Deduchin's suite at the Mark Hopkins. In a danger, tell him to go to Linder's room at the Whitcomb and wait there for us."

Welby returned the second time with a shake of his head. "The hotel reports no answer from Count Deduchin's suite."

They seated themselves at the table and the cards were dealt around. The minutes passed with leaden slowness. Then, finally, the telephone sounded a shrill peal, all four jumped up.

The Russian picked up the instrument and, after listening for a moment, smiled widely and nodded to the others. He held the instrument by the transmitting end, covering it with his fingers, and drawing pencil and paper toward him, started to write rapidly in shorthand.

The telephone conversation ran to some length, and it did not make the suspense any easier to bear to see how the Russian's expressive face was registering keen interest. When he hung up, he let out a shout of laughter and cried: "Hot stuff! They bombarded him with questions."

"Does it give us a line on Scharipov? Where are they going to meet?"

"At Walnut Creek. There is no hurry."

"But if we know where they're going, we ought to get there first."

"We are not going. Scharipov is going to fool Deduchin! What a comedy!"

While the Russian was still writing, Linder at the window said anxiously: "They're coming out. Are you sure it's okay to let them go?"

"Absolutely okay!" said the Russian. "They will never come up with Scharipov, but we will!"

TRANSLATION from the Latvian: "Clara, are you there?" "Yes, Sergei, and who do you think is here beside me?" "There beside you?" "It's Count Deduchin!" "What is Count Deduchin doing in San Francisco?" "He came on our account, Sergei. Such kindness! He read in the paper about the terrible trouble you were in and he flew to see if he could help. He was sure I would know where you were. At first he went to Sebastopol, but of course they told him there that I was away visiting. He then went to your office to ask for me. Henry told him he didn't know where I was stopping but that we met sometimes to talk business and that he could give me a message. So the Count told Henry his name and his hotel and Henry told me. And was I delighted! I went to his hotel immediately. We lunched together. I told him that I expected you to call me at three, so he brought me over to Berkeley in his car and here he is. Isn't he wonderful, Sergei? He wants to speak to you, Sergei."

"Just a moment. Have you got my letter from the Captain?" "Yes, Sergei."

"Did you tell him anything about that?" "No, Sergei."

"Good! Don't tell him! . . . Put him on the wire now. I will want to speak to you again afterwards."

"Hello, Sergei!" [A new voice: Translator.]

"Count Deduchin! What a surprise and pleasure it is to hear your voice again!"

"My poor fellow! I couldn't rest until I learned how it was with you! You are my friend, Sergei. And not only that. You are extremely valuable to the cause. How is it with you?"

"Not too good, Your Honor. It is humiliating to be hunted like an animal. It makes me burn with indignation that I should be suspected of the murder of one of my best friends."

"I know, Sergei! I know!"

"There is not a shred of evidence against me. Yet what could I do but hide? I dared not be arrested. The risk was too great that our undercover work would be exposed to the enemy."

"You did exactly right, Sergei. But what are you going to do now? We must have a meeting in order to discuss these matters."

"Certainly, we must have a meeting. But my pursuers are following me close and there is a considerable risk in it for me."

"What do you propose?"

"I am speaking from the town of Martinez, about an hour's drive from Berkeley. I dare not wait for you here, but I will proceed to Walnut Creek, about the same distance from you. Meet me at the Colonial Inn in an hour."

"We'll be there, Sergei."

"I thank Your Honor. Let me speak to my wife, please, before the connection is broken."

"Here she is."

"Hello, Sergei?"

"Listen carefully, Clara. Betray no surprise. There are reasons why I do not wish to see the Count. I will explain when we meet. I shall not come to Walnut Creek. Keep him waiting there as long as you can."

"Yes, Sergei."

"Let the Count precede you downstairs when you leave and slip the key under the mat unseen by him."

"Yes, Sergei."

"I'll call you again late tonight. Should the Count still be with you, when you answer the phone make out that it is a wrong number call and hang up again."

"Yes, Sergei."

"When this was read aloud, the four men in the room looked at each other in some wonder.

Notre Dame Coach Predicts Another Great Gridiron Year

This is another in a series, written expressly for The Associated Press, by sports leaders in which prospects for 1944 are discussed.

By FRANK LEAHY

(Director of Athletics and Football Coach at Notre Dame, the National ranking No. 1 team of 1943) Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The 1943 football season produced many outstanding players and some of the greatest games in football history, but the real heroes of the game last fall were the coaches of those colleges, not aligned with the navy training program, who decided to continue football with what they had, win or lose or draw.

Acting on the theory that what was important to have during peacetimes, was even more important to have during wartime, these colleges fielded young, inexperienced teams. But at the same time, they afforded an opportunity for countless young men to participate in a competitive sport and also provided wholesome, clean cut recreation for thousands of spectators in every section of America.

Very important also, is the fact that service men from overseas are requesting more football movies than we are able to supply. Many people thought it unwise to have these "civilian" teams, composed in the main of 17 and 18 year olds, compete against the more mature teams of navy training colleges. It is my opinion that this presented an unusual opportunity to these young lads to battle against great odds, thus better fitting themselves for the greater military battles which lie ahead. Many coaches have told me that this very thought was expressed by the players themselves.

Some people may say "it's all right for Coach Leahy to speak that way, he didn't have to depend on 17 and 18 year olds this fall." I hasten to add that during 1944 the Notre Dame team will be in the same predicament, and I am certain that we will have the same reaction from our players as teams like Icoms, Illinois, Ohio State, Minnesota, Columbia and many others had this past season.

After the performances of the 17 and 18 year olds during the 43 season, coaches all over the country will have to change the philosophy that was so often expressed in the statement "he's a great prospect, but he's only a sophomore." It was definitely established that sophomores and even freshmen can be trusted with important assignments.

After the war, young football players will be welcomed on varsity squads the same as the seniors and juniors have been, traditionally.

Prospects for the 1944 season, in my opinion, are very bright. Intercollegiate football weathered the storm this year. Next year will find many of the colleges who discontinued the sport this past fall, again being represented with teams. Because so many of the college players will be in active service, the teams will be qualified to a greater extent than ever before. I believe that spectators next season will continue to enjoy the wide open, free scoring games that thrilled them this past season.

War Work Reduces Supplies Of All Fishing Equipment

Last year fishermen were fortunate because most of the sporting goods stores had plenty of tackle on hand. This year it is going to be a different story.

Every manufacturer of fishing tackle of any kind has been doing war work and as a result no material has been made for the past couple of years.

Now the stocks in the wholesale houses and dealers' stores are practically exhausted and it will be impossible to replace most of the items until the manufacturers get into production again.

Just when that will be is difficult to say. Some dealers are hoping by the time the spring fishing season rolls around many of the larger fishing tackle manufacturers will be on a part-time production basis.

A canvass of the larger sporting goods stores in the area shows that many standard items are practically sold out, and as one dealer put it, "The boys will have to take whatever they can get or do without."

There are some reels, lines, rods and various miscellaneous items to be had, but the most popular "necessities" have long since been sold. If any old-timers have lost any of their favorite flies, streamers, lures, plugs, etc., our advice would be to visit your sporting goods store during the winter months while there is still a chance to replace them. When the trout season opens it will be too late, for there is not too much of an assortment right now.

If the anglers want to do any fishing this year and lack equipment, it will be a matter of taking what you can get or do without.

LaMotta and Zivic to Clash in Detroit Ring

By WATSON SPOELSTRA

Detroit, Jan. 13.—(AP)—If he didn't have a date next week with his draft board, Fritz Zivic's series with Jake La Motta might become a road show with real depth of tradition.

Flat-nosed Fritz, last of Pittsburgh's fighting Zivic clan, tackled jolting Jacob of the Bronx tomorrow night at Olympia Stadium in the fourth match of a series which La Motta leads, 2 to 1. New York and Pittsburgh liked the show and so will Detroit. Matchmaker Nick London declares, pointing to a big advance ticket sale.

Barring such development as draft board business, there's really no reason why the La Motta-Zivic encounter couldn't make a success of threading its way to California and back to New York just for sheer entertainment. There's not even the reasonable facsimile of a title at stake.

Naturally, Fritz thinks he'll beat La Motta over the 10-round

Trappers Will Get Good Fur This Season

State College, Pa., Jan. 13.—Pennsylvania's wartime trappers will have an unprecedented opportunity to increase their booty when the winter trapping season reaches its peak late this month. Dr. P. F. English, acting head of the wildlife research unit at the Pennsylvania State College, predicted today.

With fewer trappers in the field because of the war and war prices at a high peak, the Penn State expert said that the season should be one of the best in history. He estimated the yearly return on raw furs in this state since 1926 at $1,200,649.

This month, he pointed out, all fur-bearing animals except beavers and otters are legal prey in this state. The season for minks, skunks, and muskrats is open until January 31, while others may be trapped during the same period in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne, and Wyoming counties.

Beaver trapping season will open February 15 and continue until February 25 in 22 Pennsylvania counties, while opossums are unprotected throughout the state until September 30. Trapping of red and gray fox is unrestricted throughout the year.

The wildlife research specialist pointed out that proper care of the skins will enhance their value, warning that all fat should be removed before the skin is dried. Drying, he added, should be done in a cool, airy place—never in the sun or close to a fire. He also advised against use of salt, alum, or similar materials.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Rising a long-range prediction: The post-war sports boom you've been hearing about will be in the amateur, rather than the professional, field. . . . Pro sports won't find the going very easy under the proposed national service law, although some may survive. . . . Meanwhile college athletics get the benefit of navy support and leaders feel certain that any demobilization plan will include subsidies of some sort to encourage boys to resume their college studies. . . . Taht should equip the colleges with mature, experienced athletes and at the same time eliminate the lure of a little quick dough for playing professionally. . . . Another prediction: If all this takes place, the colleges will spoil their own racket by hoisting prices to five bucks for any $1.50 football game, just as they did back in the twenties.

Hazards of Driving On Icy Roads Great

Hazards of winter driving present a problem of more than ordinary significance this year, according to the Keystone Automobile Club, which points to the loss of manpower as one big reason why all drivers should try to avoid highway cracks in wartime.

"Everyone is agreed," said Edward P. Curran, Safety Director of the Keystone Automobile Club, "that motor transportation is absolutely essential not only to the war effort but to the everyday life of the American people. No one deliberately sets out to have an accident, but the way some people drive in these critical days raises doubt as to their appreciation of the seriousness of the situation."

The Club offers the following suggestions for winter driving: 1. Adjust speeds to conditions. On slippery surfaces and when visibility is poor conservative speeds are imperative.

2. Slow down well in advance of intersections and curves. Ice and snow are particularly dangerous at such points and speed should be reduced to a point where a complete stop can be made in emergency.

3. Follow other vehicles at a safe distance. "Close" driving under slippery road conditions is an invitation to disaster.

4. Apply brakes lightly and intermittently. Normal application of brakes on slippery surfaces may lock the wheels and throw the car into a slide.

5. Signal intention of turning or stopping. This is important at any time, but it is doubly important in winter, when the ability of a following car to stop safely is greatly restricted by slippery roadway.

Gigantic Raid On Germany Held Success
 bombers and formations of Nazi fighters as a forerunner of the mighty struggle for air supremacy expected to accompany the land invasion of western Europe.

Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. army air forces, said at Wichita, Kas., that the continuing attacks against Nazi plane production had prevented the Germans from doubling their fighter strength as a defense against invasion.

More than 700 heavy bombers and a likely record fighter escort constituted the American aerial task force.

The attacks, directed against factories at Ochsersleben, Halberstadt and Brunswick (Braunschweig), all within a radius of 120 miles of Berlin, constituted possibly the most crippling blow of the war against the Nazi air arm.

Results were described officially as excellent.

In addition, smashing of the factories means that hundreds of projected German fighters never will be manufactured, Gen. Arnold said.

 its availability in case of any real emergency. He stated that the mere fact that the guard had been called out to protect bridges, with only a handful available at that time for such an assignment, had cut down many, many incidents

The Wounded Soldier Who Rings Your Doorbell

Sometime January 18, or soon thereafter, your door bell will ring. The finger that presses it will be on the hand of a Warren woman, one of your own neighbors. But she—one of 250 Block Leaders—will be merely acting as agent for another.

Who is that other?

He is a wounded soldier calling from a Field Station on Tarawa. He is a paratrooper dropping out of the sky into a Jap-infested jungle on New Britain. He is a tow-headed lad in the snout of a bomber. He is a crawling corporal on a mountain slope in the Appenines. He is an American.

When she asks you—as she will—to subscribe to the Fourth War Loan, it is that paratrooper who is asking, through her.

When she asks you—as she will—to enroll for the Blood Donors, it is that wounded soldier who is asking, through her.

What will be your answer, Woman-Citizen of Warren?

What will be your answer, Woman-American?

Chaplain Tells of Experiences In Army Work

Those who read The Expositor, international magazine dealing with religious affairs, were happy to find that the lead article in the January issue was written by Lt. Edward K. Rogers, chaplain with the armed forces overseas and minister on military leave from the First Lutheran church of Warren.

"Doughboy's Chaplain" is the article's title and in it Chaplain Rogers tells some of his experiences with a combat battalion in North Africa and Sicily. His efforts to live up to the statement that "a good chaplain should stay close to his troops" has taken him into many spots where the boys describe the life as "a bit rugged." Church services held in unusual places, burial of dead buddies, acquaintance with African fleas and the life of an infantry soldier are all related with the personal touch that proves their truth.

Scouts to Distribute Posters on Saturday

"Buying a Bond Is No Sacrifice" is the title of the poster being distributed Saturday by the Boy Scout Dispatch Bearers as a part of the Public Information program incident to the opening of the Fourth War Loan drive.

The Scouts who are assigned to the posters on Saturday are as follows: Randall White, William Fuelhart, Raymond Streich, Raymond Larson and Richard Swick of Troop 4, Donald Clymer, Kenneth Palmer, Judson Hetrick and Elwyn Nichols of Troop 46 Warren.

A 25-ton medium tank has an alloy steel transmission weighing 7600 pounds or as much as three light automobiles.
